After my transformational experience in 1979, I went to several leading-edge style workshops, and around 1982 I was at one where they spoke of the conspiracy of ineffectiveness. And when I heard it said, I said, “that’s it exactly, that is exactly how it is on this planet”. To conspire means to “breathe together”, that’s how deep it is, this whole planet conspiring together to keep itself ineffective.

So it means that anyone who stands up and starts to proclaim the ineffectiveness of it is immediately silenced and put off to the side in special little places they put people like that. It is seemingly a coming together of all the forces of the ineffective world to keep itself that way. And everything that they do demands that we do less than all that we can do. The conspiracy of ineffectiveness is doing less than we can do.

Have you noticed any dog or cat or elephant or alligator having a personality or an ego or something other than themselves that they operate from? We are the only species on the planet who actually invent our personality, we invent the way we are. Instead of being like the alligator or the elephant or the dog or cat, we invent our way of being, so it is false, it is a conspiracy. Then once we invent this way of being, this false way of being, then we protect it with our life, limb and body.

As a matter of fact, if anyone suggests for us to be real we scream and holler like a little piggy that we are real. “I am what I am, take me as I am”, and yet we are a false identity, we are an image of ourselves. And by virtue of that it is a conspiracy of ineffectiveness, we keep ourselves ineffective.

It is called a conspiracy because, as I said earlier, to conspire means to breathe together. It is so deeply ingrained in us that we are actually breathing it together.

I don’t mean together like in a football game. In a football game the team huddles up in a little huddle and they say, “Ok you go down to the right and you go down to the left” and they make this plan, and they go up to the ball and they snap it and they go do their thing. Well in life we don’t all huddle together and say, “Ok let’s all do less than we can do, let’s pretend to be real.” We don’t do that. We conspire, we breathe. It is so deep it is an unspoken conspiracy that we will remain in the illusion, that we will believe our way through life.
To start off, we are not being ourselves. We are not being the real live entity that was born. We are being the entity that we are forced to be after our birth. So, isn’t that in itself ineffective? There is no way to know how it would be if we weren’t ineffective, because there has not been anyone who hasn’t been forced into a conspiracy of ineffectiveness, who was not forced into being a false entity.

We are being false by being our personality instead of being ourselves. A personality is something you invent yourself to be rather than being the self that you are. We are born as perfect individuals, with no personality, with no hates. We are not born hating black people if we are white, and we are not born hating white people if we are black. And we are not born hating Jewish people if we are Hitler. All of that is learned.

Some people wonder if getting out of the conspiracy would be worse than what we are learning now. But I say, what would be worse than what we are now? Look at the suffering and the misery, look at all the people on the planet not being themselves. Look at all the pain and the suffering and the wars and people killing themselves and the drinking and the alcohol and the drugs and all those things on this planet. I suppose things could be worse than that, but I don’t think so.

In a psychological standpoint we are as the caveman was. If we had a true picture of where we are today in our world it would look something like this: It would be a caveman with long straggly hair and a beard and a big club in his hand and his woman by the hair and in front of him would be placed a computer. That is where we are today. We are thousands of years ahead in technology but as a species we are still dragging our women around by the hair with a club in our hand, and we have a computer there. Do you see the analogy? That is our psychological movement; it is what the caveman was.

Yet, how to show people that we are being ineffective is a difficult thing. You know why? It is because we call Bill Gates and Warren Buffet and those people, we call them hugely successful, and that is proof that things are working. That everyone should aspire to being rich. It is not to say they are horrible for having all that money.

If you were on the moon and you had binoculars strong enough to see our planet, besides the fact that you wouldn’t consider coming to this planet because of all the wars and the killing, you would see some people living in mansion and others dropping dead daily from starvation. What would you say if you were on the moon looking down on all that? Seeing all the wars and starvation and the one guy with all the wealth who is not even paying attention to what is going on?

Some people say they are helping those who are suffering, giving them aid. Yet, that is more proof of our ineffectiveness of ourselves isn’t it? Rather than removing the violence from ourselves, rather than distributing the wealth in an even manner, rather than bringing force peace on earth, we dole out a few dollars to the poor guy. We put off their starvation for a few days and give them a few dollars.
They give them a bag of rice. And then given their level of maturity they fight over the bag of rice, or their government seizes it and sells it back to them. That is where our world is, that is the conspiracy of ineffectiveness.

Our world does not work in the manner in which it is right now. None of it is working. I say the only thing every individual, every person needs to be working towards is their own personal transformation, which is the actual discovery of the self. The discarding of the ego and the discovery of the self. That is the only thing, I say, that will ‘right the ship”, it is the only place that will create balance is when we discover our own insanity. Only insane people would live like we are living. We need a transformation, not changing it, but transforming it completely.

I am speaking of the transformation of consciousness. And it is not something I am doing, I am delivering it. I heard someone say today “why would I want a new consciousness, I am happy with the old one.” I smile at that because it is now inevitable, it will be delivered. Or the planet will be blown up before that happens.

So the rich people who have everything now, who don’t want things to change, they are going to be fighting this new consciousness, this transformation. They are happy the way things are.

That is the true strength of this transformation and what it will cause. Those 5% of the richest people have gained their wealth through the manipulation of the masses. Let’s go slow here: through the manipulation of the masses the wealthy gain their wealth. And by virtue of that, the more they manipulate the masses the greater the gain of wealth. So, this manipulation of the robots (the masses) is where they gain their wealth, and the greater the manipulation the greater the wealth is to the wealthy. And, they couldn’t manipulate the masses unless the masses were there to manipulate.

Now here is where the real key to it comes in. The thing being used to manipulate the masses is being tickled down and trickled down and trickled down. You can hear it with the internet marketing information I have been listening to, “learn from me how to write copy so people will buy from you. Learn from me how to write persuasive articles” so all those things are trickling down. It is the learning of it. And everyone is trying to manipulate the person below them, which in turn makes it even worse. You would think it would make it better, but it makes it worse, because the manipulation always takes stepping on the one below you in order to gain yourself.

So the activity of transformation is the waking up of the self. Let’s look at this closely. What did I say the wealthy rely on? Manipulating the robots (the masses). They have their manipulative forces at work manipulating the robots, the person who is sound asleep, who is not real, the one who is not how they were as when they were born. And while they are using those manipulative forces, those same forces are being used back on them as well. So it is round and round we go, where it stops nobody knows.
But here is the stopper of it. When you wake up (let's use wake up this time instead of transform), suddenly you say, look at this manipulation. It is happening with religion, people are waking up to religion. They say, “Wait a minute what is this ridiculous thing”.

So the masses are beginning to awaken to the manipulation. What happens then? What happens to the people at the top who have been using this same form of manipulation? Even if they try to use a new form of manipulation, since the masses now see the manipulation that has been happening for thousands of years then when the wealthy and the controllers when they start manufacturing a new form of manipulation what’s the first thing the awake person is going to see? The new form of manipulation.

It means the total destruction of the wealth. That’s what transformation means that is what awakening means. Awakening means to move outside of the domain of the manipulated. We wake up and see we are being manipulated, and not only that we see how they are manipulating us. And the conspiring is that they are not the only ones doing it. It is not just them that manipulate us; it is also us who are manipulating others, like our children. We stop manipulating our children when we come out of the dream world called “mother” and the dream world called “parent”, that whole dream, that whole nightmare actually. So you see not only the manipulation that has been used on you, but also that you use on them (or others).

Some people don’t call it manipulation, they say they are teaching (their children). But, it is still manipulation. Some people call it family (that is another whole conversation). Not only are we at the effect of the manipulation from above (let’s call is “above” since we are talking about larger amounts of money trickling down to smaller amounts of money) but then we use the same forces (not as effectively, we are not quite as good as the people at the top), but we are pretty good at it so we use it on our children and then our children learn it.

This could almost be called world war III, if you took the word “war” out of it. Because it is the ending of what I call the conspiracy of ineffectiveness, and the transformation of consciousness is already an inevitability (unless we blow ourselves up before that happens).

***

Transformation, and the new consciousness is happening, it cannot be stopped now. What happens when you transform your consciousness is you are no longer a conduit or a receptor for the manipulation coming down to you from the “big boys” (so to speak). You are no longer at the effect of that. And, you don’t pass the manipulation on. So you are the break of the chain. If you can see it, you will not pass it on to our children. Not only do we no longer accept it, we no longer will be passing it on.

The first step in the breaking of the chain of manipulation is to see I am still going along with the manipulation, because I am still in Rome. But, I am taking little detours when nobody is watching. I am cutting the chords. This is an analogy now, I see this huge machine and I see all these wires, and I know all the wires are important to keep it running. So when nobody is watching I go over there and cut a wire, then I go over and march with the group.

And when I interact with people, we together cut their ties and their apron strings. And if we don’t blow ourselves up off of this planet, then it will probably be within the next 50-100 years before we have all transformed. All of that will be put in high gear. It is all in gear right now, the ending of the government, the ending of the money, the ending of violence. The gears are already greased and they are ready to go. They might be still going uphill but they are pretty close to the top.

I am watching it happen. I am outside of it (like that person watching from the moon) watching it. I am seeing the divisions and the cave-ins start to take place. When someone transforms they are outside of what is happening, so they can see it outside of what is happening. When you wake up from the dream, the first thing that you see is the people in the dream. You realize they are just squirming around, and you are no longer in the dream. They are squirming around and gnarling their teeth and they are crying and they are arguing with each other and they are going to war and they are violent and they are sending their children off to places to make them into robots. It is such an ugly insane thing to watch, so it is pretty easy to see. Because then you see the results of it.

And we cannot see the ugliness of the world because we are in it, because we are the ugliness of the world. You are it. Watch a child who goes from this lovely little person to someone who is screaming and yelling and slamming doors and has to have drugs and becomes a tyrant, and we say, “well, that’s life”, rather than saying it doesn’t have to be that way. People who say, “Well, that’s life” want to just curl up and die, they are in the conspiracy of ineffectiveness.

What would it take to propel someone out of this? To start with we need to get to that place that is outside of feeling. To see that anything you do inside this consciousness, this old consciousness is part of the conspiracy of ineffectiveness. And not only that the dastardly part of it is that it pulls you down in it. It’s like quicksand, all the energy you use to pull yourself out of it sucks you down into it. And every choice you make while you are being sucked down into it is a deeper sucking; it pulls you in even farther.

I am saying we have to literally give up and not care in order to transform, that the closest you will come to ecstasy is when you don’t care.

***

Most of us do care. Let’s look at that slowly. Where is that care? In thinking, in feeling. If you could erase it, what would be left? Maybe a space? And then we want to fill it up (the space). Just notice what is there with care. There is a possibility to live your life from that blank space.

As long as you don’t fill it, as long as you live your life from it (that space) I can show you what will happen. Into this blank space something will come and it will manifest itself and it will leave.

Then the next action will come from that space, from nothing. And that scares most people, not knowing what will come. But if your next action comes from “I don’t know”, then what is your next action going to be? “I don’t know” (that is the place).

Let’s look at this carefully. Your whole life has been to act from what you already know, so why not test this? Give what you don’t know a chance? It would come from creation, from the unknown. It is so foreign. What is an indication it might be new? The fact that it has not been here before, that it is foreign.

We all act from what we know (or think we know) and what we know is the conspiracy of ineffectiveness. And that conspiracy has been running this plant for thousands of years. And it already knows what it is going to do. It knows you will be born, made into a robot, and die. And during that period of time you are going to bring forth a whole bunch of other robots.

Transformation of consciousness erases the conspiracy of ineffectiveness, we see the conspiracy, we see the manipulation. We see the manipulation of the people above us and even below us and we see what we do to others. In seeing this, through transformation, we don’t pass the manipulation on. We see that everything we have done has been destroying the world and everything we will do will destroy the world.

If everything we have been doing has been destroying the world, then everything we will do will destroy it too unless you do it from a place where you have not been doing it from before (a new consciousness), that empty space.

It is like an atomic bomb inside of us, that empty space. That space of “not knowing” is 100 times more effective than the place of “knowing”. We are going to have a “big bang” inside of ourselves. From that, the result of that, what can you do? “I don't know”! That is it. That is magnificent!

Coming from the place of “I don’t know” leaves open all possibilities. It takes a tremendous amount of trust. And someone can only see this when they realize their life and the life of the planet is a complete failure, a complete destructive force, and it is not worth surviving it. And it happens with trust. Trusting yourself. Sometimes it takes trusting another to see your trust in yourself. And, if you can see a trust in other, then you can see your trust in yourself.

People are trying to build from the old consciousness to bring forth this new consciousness. But, there needs to be a total destruction of the old in order to create the new. Since they are building from the old, it is not new. All belief has to be destroyed, including the belief in spirit and crystals and healing, or god whatever else they are using/doing. You cannot add belief on top of belief and end up free, you will only end up more deeply buried. The guru will bury you, the Buddha will bury you the god will bury you Jesus will bury you the pope will bury you, only because you are adding on to it, you are adding weight onto an already dead weight to try to get out from under weight. When I say you I mean the world in general.
